Moscow, June 6.

THE Attorney-General is arrived here from Colonna, and has promised M. Wilde the States General's Resident, that he shall immediately have the Czar's Regulation for dispatching the Ships of Holland sooner than those of other Nations which trade hither: He has also promised that Minister to write to the Czar concerning Payment for the Cargo of the Dutch Ship the Catherine. Count Bond, a Colonel in the Duke of Holstein's Service, is on his Departure for Sweden; Colonel Plate, who is at Berlin, is to come hither in the Room of the former, and Major General Steinleit is to succeed the latter at Berlin. Messrs. de Bassowitz and de Helsen continue here with the Duke, but several others of his Attendants are preparing to return to Holstein, and among them Brigadier Rantzau.

Lisbon, June 1. Advices are received here of Cardinal d'Acunha's being set out from Rome in order to return home to this Kingdom by Way of France and Spain. His Eminency's Presence is much wanted here, by reason of a great Number of Tryals depending in the Court of Inquisition, of which he is Inquisitor; and 'tis said that a Grand Auto de Fé is to be held here in September next.

Rome, June 16. The Abbé Coltrolini, the Elector Palatine's new Agent, having delivered his Letters of Credence to the Cardinal Secretary of State, went the 11th Instant to have his Audience, but was ill received, the Cardinal being yet unwilling to acknowledge any other Person in Quality of the Elector Palatine's Agent besides the Count Mazzotti, who had that Character before, and is now deprived of it through a private Pique he had some Months ago with Father Vanheick, who for several Years past has lived in Italy under the Protection of the Palatine House, and has the Inspection of its Affairs. About 20 young Knights of Malta are arrived here, and while the Gallies of their Order continue at Nettuno, those Gentlemen are come hither to see the Curiosities of this City: They are treated here with abundance of Distinction and Respect, and such of them who are Natives of France are entertained every Day at Dinner by the Abbé Tanfin.

Dantzick, June 27. It is currently reported, that the Polish Republick designs to send an Embassy to the Czar when he is returned from Astracan, to acquaint him, that the Republick having no considerable Difference with Sweden that requires any extraordinary Mediation, and also that the Emperour being disposed to take on himself that Office, his Czarish Majesty cannot be displeased, if in case of Necessity, the Republick should prefer to his Mediation that of his Imperial Majesty. This Embassy is to have it in Commission, to desire the Czar to make known his final Resolution touching the Business of the Dutchy of Livonia; and to represent to him, that as to his Pretension to the Imperial Dignity, the Republick cannot give their Consent thereto, seeing that the Kings of Poland as well as other crowned Heads, have always claimed Precedency in Rank over the Czaars of Muscovy. The Duke of Mecklenbourg has received an Express from Colonel Vittinghoff, whom he had sent to Moscow, giving an Account that he has obtained the Czar's Consent, that the Duke's Troops, consisting of eight Regiments of Foot, should be sent back from the Province of Moscow to Ukraina, for the Convenience of better Subsistence; but as to the other Parts of his Negotiation, he had not been able to succeed in them, by reason of the Czar's Departure for Astracan.

Warsaw, June 27. Most of the Officers belonging to the King's Household are arrived here from Dresden, and report, that the King designs to begin his Journey hither the 29th Instant, nevertheless some Persons here are still of Opinion, that his Majesty will pass the Summer in Saxony, and that the Diet will not be held till the Month of October next. Mean while, the Bishops of Posen, of Ermland, of Chelm, and of Camimieck, are already arrived here, as are likewise the Palatine of Ploskow, the Crown Marshal, the Chancellor, the Referendary, and several others, in Hopes his Majesty will soon be here. The Great Treasurer of the Crown set out the 12th Instant from Lemberg on his Journey to this Place, and has been since followed by the Palatines of Russia, of Cracow, and Livonia. The last Letters from our Frontiers say, that our Ambassadour to the Ottoman Port continues still at Bazardniske, waiting an Escorte to conduct him to Constantinople.

Dantzick, July 1. The Duke of Mecklenbourg is yet here incognito, but does not receive now either Expresses or Money from the Czar. The Danish Envoy M. Westphalen continues at Petersbourg, from whence some Letters give an Account, that there has lately happened another Inundation.

Hambourg, July 7. The Russian Minister here has received further Advices, confirming their Czarish Majesties Departure for Astracan; he has also received two Letters from the Czar, with Directions to complain of the undue Liberty still taken by the News-Writers of these Parts, in publishing Falshoods about the Projects and Designs of his Czarish Majesty, notwithstanding the Declaration made here by this Minister some Weeks ago, who is now ordered to cause those false Accounts to be retracted by the Authors, or else to insist upon having suitable Satisfaction: These Letters mention little concerning the Duke of Holstein, except that he keeps his Residence at a Country House near Moscow, but has yet had no Opportunity of seeing the two Princesses otherwise than at a Distance. It is confirmed on all Hands, that the Count de Rantzau resigned his Blue Ribbon and his Gold Key in Presence of all the Commissioners appointed to examine him concerning the Death of his elder Brother the late Count, believing to escape by that means the Danish Jurisdiction, and to take his Tryal in Quality of a Count of the Empire:

pire: Nevertheless 'tis not yet perceived that the Emperor has hitherto any ways interposed with the Danish Court in his Behalf. Councillour Zittcher set out Yesterday for Copenhagen, on the Part of the Duke of Holstein Reiskwick, to regulate the Affair of his Succession to the Dutchy of Ploen; 'tis said that the Duke himself designs to set out in 15 Days for Copenhagen, and the general Opinion is, that that Matter will be determined agreeably to his Wishes. Advices from Berlin say, that the King of Prussia designs to set out shortly for that Kingdom.

Hague, July 6. The States General having received an Express from Zealand, with Advice that the States of that Province would assemble in 10 Days, to bring to a Conclusion the Matter relating to the farming their Customs, 'tis again hoped that Point will at last be happily adjusted: But the levying of the Hundredth Penny meets with far greater Difficulty, neither is it yet known how that Business will end, the Nobility contending still to oppose it with all their Interest. The States of Groningen press likewise very earnestly for an Answer to the Resolution they presented the 28th of May last concerning that Tax, which also meets with many Obstacles in their Province. Major General de Villate is set out for his Government at Macricht, where he is to give Orders for repairing the Fortifications of that Place. Fresh Instructions for Admiral Graave, who commands our Squadron in the Mediterranean, are dispatched for him to the Dutch Consul at Cadiz. M. Ham, the States Secretary at Madrid, has also received fresh Instructions concerning Commerce, and the Complaints of Impositions in the Custom-Duties; that Secretary has had an Augmentation of Salary allowed him of 800 Florins. The Marquis de Monteleone has lately notified in a Conference with their High Mightinesses Deputies, that five Spanish Men of War, commanded by Don Antonio Serrano, are sailed from Cadiz to cruise, in Conjunction with the Ships of this State, against the Algerines.
